MECHANIC FALLS TEAM HERE SAT.

Visitors Defeated Hebron Reserve Team Last Saturday—Strong Opposition Expected

Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock the veteran Mechanic Falls football team will play Gould on the local athletic field. The visitors are coming with a heavy team composed of veterans from last year's eleven. They have made an excellent showing to date; having held a strong South Paris team to a 13-0 count and last week defeating a reserve team from Hebron 7-0.

The local outfit should be in fine shape for this contest. Traf Bartlett, regular half-back, will probably be back in his position after last week's lay-off due to a head injury. Stan Allen will go back to his end position thus giving the strength to the right end of the line.

The game Saturday is one of three games which will be played in successive weeks on the local grid-iron. Local football enthusiasts are looking forward to these games.

MRS. SOPHIA BARTLETT

The death of Sophia Roberts

Bartlett, aged 76, of Dorchester,

Mass., occurred suddenly Thursday morning, September 23, at the home of her brother, J. B. Roberts, of Hanover.

Mrs. Bartlett had come to Hanover from Dorchester just a week before her death to attend the funeral of her brother, Leon

Roberts, last Sept. 22. Mrs. Bartlett seemed in good health and arose in the morning as usual, her death occurring suddenly a short time later from heart trouble. She had planned to return to Dorchester last week.

Mrs. Bartlett was born in Hanover, the daughter of James and Beulah Bartlett Roberts. She spent her early life in Hanover, attending schools there and later attended

Gould Academy and Bridgton Academy. Following her marriage to G.

F. Bartlett of Bethel the couple relived here, but for the past 26 years she has made her home in Dorchester.

Surviving are one brother, J. B.

Roberts, Hanover, a son, George

Elizabeth, N. J., two daughters,

Beulah and Stella, residing in Dorchester, and one grandchild. She was a member of the Universalist church.

The body was taken to Dorchester, Mass., for burial and services were held there Sunday from the home at 2:30 o'clock. Dr. Coons,

State Superintendent of Universalist Churches, conducting the services. A personal tribute was read by Mrs. Agnes Burton Haskell, of Holyoke, Mass., daughter of a former pastor of the Universalist church, Bethel, and a great friend of the family. A poem written by

Mrs. Bartlett was read at the service by Mrs. Hubbard. Burial was in Dorchester.

Many Bethel friends were sad-den to learn of the death of Mrs.

Sophia Bartlett. She was well known in town where she lived for some 12 years. A loyal member of the Universalist Church, she was a devoted worker in all its branches and much beloved by the members of her Sunday School class. Her sweetness and her cordial friendship to all with whom she came in contact will long be remembered by her neighbors and friends.

HERE AND THERE IN MAINE

Lost in the woods overnight, Fred Bither, Jr., 15-year-old Houlton boy, met his father with a searching party Saturday. Without food, axe, matches or warm clothing he made use of his Boy Scout training and erected a make-shift lean-to where he slept. In the early morning he found a hunters' camp

by which he made his way out.

Wallace Rider Farrington, a native of Orono, passed away at Honolulu Friday at the age of 62 years. He attended Bridgton Academy and graduated from the University of Maine in 1891. He became a reporter on Maine and Ne-

York papers and went to the Hawaiian Islands in 1894 where he followed newspaper work, becoming manager of the Star Bulletin

He was Governor of Hawaii from

STEADFAST
Everard Jack Appleton

If I can help another bear an ill
By bearing mine with somewhat of good grace—
Can take Fate's thrusts with not too long a face
And help him through his trials,
then I WILL!
For do not braver men than I desire
To bow to troubles graver, far,
than mine?

Pain twists the body? Yes, but it shall not.
Distort my soul, by all the gods
that be!
And when it's done its worst,
Pain's victory
Shall be an empty one! Whate'er my lot,
My banner, ragged, but nailed to the mast,
Shall fly triumphant to the very last!

Others so much worse off than I have fought;
Have smiled—have met defeat
with unbent head
They shame me into following where they led.
Can I ignore the lesson they have taught?
Strike hands with me! Dark is the way we go,
But Souls courageous like it—
that I know!

A PHILOSOPHER
John Kendrick Bangs

To take things as they be—
That's my philosophy.
No use to holler, moan, or curse—
If they was changed they might be worse.
It rain is pourin' down,
An' lightnin' buzzin' round,
I ain't afearin' we'll be hit,
But grin that I ain't out in it.
If I got deep in debt—
It hasn't happened yet—
And owed a man two dollars, Gee!
Why I'd be glad it wasn't three.
It some one come along,
And tried to do me wrong,
Why I should sort of take a whim
To thank the Lord I wasn't him.

I never seen a night
So dark there wasn't light
Somewhere about if I took care
To strike a match and find out where.

LITTLE BROWN HANDS
Anonymous

They drive home the cows from the pasture
Up through the long, shady lane,
Where the quail whistles loud in the wheat field
That is yellow with ripening grain.

They find in the thick, waving grasses
Where the scarlet-lipped strawberry grows;
They gather the earliest snowdrops
And the first crimson buds of the rose.

They toss the hay in the meadow,
They gather the elder-bloom
white;
They find where the dusky grapes purple
In the soft-tinted October light.

They know where the apples hang ripest
And are sweeter than Italy's wines;
They know where the fruit hangs thickest
On the long thorny blackberry vines.

They gather the delicate seaweeds,
And build tiny castles of sand;
They pick up the beautiful sea-
shells,
Fairy barks that have drifted to land.

They wave from the tall, rocking
tree-tops,
Where the oriole's hammock-neat swings;

And at night-time are folded in slumber
By a song that a fond mother sings.

Those who toil bravely are strongest,
The humble and poor become great;

And from those brown-handed children
Shall grow mighty rulers of state.

The pen of the author and statesman,
The noble and wise of our land—
The sword and the chisel, and pal-ete,

Shall be held in the little brown hand.

Largest of Military Planes

Workmen require ladders and runways to traverse the various parts of this flying boat which was launched at Hendon, England, as the largest military plane in the world. It is a short six engined plane, built for open sea reconnaissance and long distance patrol work and constructed entirely of metal except for coverings of the outer sections of the wings. Despite its great weight of 81 1/2 tons fully laden, the machine is amazingly fast.

Mrs. Velma Brown Davis was at Norway Saturday, shopping, and spent Sunday and Monday of this week at the Brown's and Austin home at Bryant Pond.

On of the most enjoyable recent events held in this part of the town was an old fashioned corn roast held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Kenntson on Curtis Hill. The special guests for the evening were members of the S. D. A. Church, Sabbath School teachers and members of the S. D. A. Church school, relatives, friends and neighbors. Everything was prepared for the feast, sticks of long roasting sticks, big batches of sweet corn, and a huge bonfire, while the heavens were lighted by the harvest moon. Many heads of families were presented with baskets of corn to take home thus further showing the much appreciated generosity of our Curtis Hill neighbors.

South Woodstock people are again attending the 44 Class meetings at West Paris. Rev. Maxell holds the close attention of his audience. The 44 Class band, under the instruction of Myron Scarborough, has kept up its practice work during summer vacation and is now prepared to give an even more popular class of music than formerly. These meetings are held every Sunday morning at 9 o'clock.

Deferred

Sunday guests at James Kimball's were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kimball, Locke Mills. Mr. and Mrs. John Lavin, Miss Clara Lavin and George Bray from South Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. Colby Robinson from Portland.

Rev. W. L. Bull called on Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wardwell Monday evening.

Mrs. Nancy Andrews attended the Missionary Meeting in Portland Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Skeele have closed their summer home at Hunt's Corner and returned to Savannah, Georgia.

Strip of Land Held Up a Post Office Building

Hollister, Calif.—Contractors on the new Hollister post office has been held up by a 35-inch strip of ground. The very narrow strip of soil, federal engineers disclosed, became "hot" years ago when the original owner of the property sublimated the property into lots.

When the government selected the lot for its new post office, it demanded a clear title. Title could be given to all but the 3 1/2 inch strip.

A briefly suit to quiet title has been filed by Joseph Lampe against Irene Holbrook and any other persons who may have claim to the tiny strip. Construction work will be held in abeyance until the suit is settled.

Robin Hood

Robin Hood is pretty general of any truth in the story of Robin Hood, in name as very similar tales are found in Germany and Scandinavia and appear to be part of the common heritage of all the related northern peoples. There is, at any rate, no proof of Robin Hood's existence, although the exploits of some local hero may have been the center around which the Robin Hood tales crystallized. Some authorities think he represents simply the remnant of the old Saxon race, living in perpetual defiance of the Norman conquerors.

Pigeon Racing Popular

season. Pigeon fanciers from all parts of the country take part in the is said to provoke more interest than a war! A series in baseball,

BEAUS AND BELLES FEATURE OF SHOW

Hilarious Production To Be Offered By Grange Next Monday and Tuesday Evenings

"Henry's Wedding" the three-act comedy play which will be presented next Monday and Tuesday evening, October 16 and 17, at the Grange Hall, Bethel, promises to be one of the funniest productions ever staged in Bethel or surrounding towns.

When you see Harold Lurvey as "Uncle Henry," a bachelor bridegroom, trying to get married, being kidnapped, having his clothes taken from him, and finally success in getting married in a pair of shorts, the fun and hilarious moments tend to keep the audience in an uproar throughout the play.

The biggest feature attraction are the Beaus and Belles of the Gay Nineties. Thirty prominent business men are dressed in special costumes as Beaus and Belles, representing the different characters of the 1890 period. For instance,
E. P. Lyon as Miss Bustle, Elton
Dalley as Miss Fantalette, Dr.
Ralph Hood as the Bowery Belle and Earl Williamson as Gas House Harry, dancing to the "Sidewalks of New York." Grover Brooks as Peg Pants Charlie and Sherman
Allen as Miss Hobble skirt playinin the shade of the old apple tree.
Ralph Burris and Warren Brown as Miss Hooskri and Beau Brummell, dancing a Virginia reel to the tune of "The Irish Washerwoman." These are but a few of the thirty men who will entertain in "Henry's Wedding."

Then we have the Mystic Shrine-ers. Thirty men and women singinold time spirituals such as "Ho-dem Bells," "Sing You Singers," "Hallelujah," etc.

And don't forget the forty page chorus girls.

KIDNAPING MOSTLY DONE BY GANGSTERS

"Amateurs" Usually Display a Lack of Skill.

New York.—A new light may have been thrown on kidnaping in the United States the other day when the police closed in on the men involved in the abduction of little Margaret McMath of Horseshoeport, Mass., and found, instead of a group of "desperate gangsters," two Cape Cod merchants, says the New York Times.

The fact that the Buck brothers were not gangsters does not disprove the frequently made assertion that there are organized bands in the United States who specialize in this particularly vicious and cowardly type of crime. There is plenty of evidence that kidnaping groups do exist. But the McMath case suggests that many kidnapings are attempted or carried out by men who may be described as amateurs.

Began With Racketeers.

The history of organized kidnaping, as investigators have pieced it together, is that it began with the abduction of racketeers, gangsters, gamblers and others not on good terms with the law by fellow denizens of the underworld. The victims in such cases were rarely in a position to appeal to the police.

So far as can be ascertained, and the theory is borne out by the records, organized kidnapers prefer to deal with adults, probably because a kidnaped adult can be bargained with directly and because popular indignation does not reach quite so high a pitch. While they invade the normal, law-abiding world they deal in large figures. The kidnapers of Charles Rosenthal, a New York broker, in August, 1931, asked for and got $50,000 ransom. They also got, without asking, 20 years in prison when the four of them were captured and convicted.

Sixty thousand dollars is reported to have been paid for the release of Claude Boettcher, son of a wealthy Denver man, kidnaped last March. John Factor of Chicago, sometimes known as "Jake the Barber," is said to have paid $10,000 for the release of his young son, Jerome, though it must be added that Factor refused to confirm this statement.

One hundred thousand dollars was demanded of Michael W. Katz of Kansas City, $150,000 of Dr. Isaac D. Kelly of St. Louis, $75,000 of Mrs. Nell Donnelly of Kansas City, $50,000 of Benjamin Bower, a Denver Broker.

Risky Enterprise.

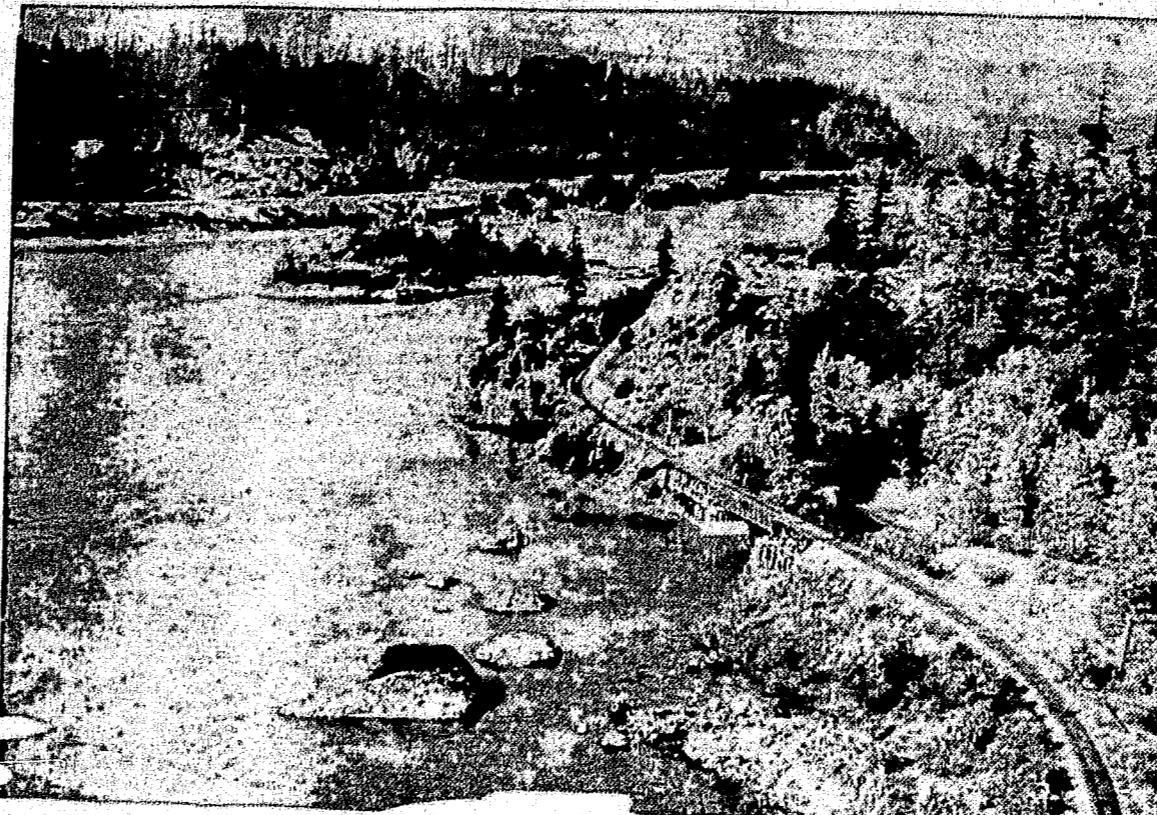

Nevertheless, kidnaping is a risky and uncertain enterprise, particularly since "Whitakers," as the United States government is said to be called in the underworld, entered the field in opposition. Until last year it was difficult for federal officials to make a case against kidnapers, even when the United States mails had been used or victims carried across state lines. Two statutes passed by congress in June and July, 1932, remedied this situation.

One of them imposes a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a fine of $5,000 for the use of the mails to convey threats to injure, to kidnap, to accuse of crime, or to demand ransom or reward for the return of an abducted person. The second provides for cases in which a kidnaped person has been carried across a state, territorial or international boundary of the United States; the judge on conviction may impose any penalty up to life imprisonment. This is said to be the only federal statute in which such discretion is allowed.

Lumberjack Duties.

A lumberjack cuts and prepares timber for the mill. His work may be any one of the processes involved, from the chopping of the tree in the forest to the delivery of the logs at the mill. The lumberjack may also have to cut roads through the forest or even build railways where there is no way of floating the logs. He must be a good judge of timber, and be able to estimate closely the number of board feet in a log. He must have physical strength in order to stand the heavy work long hours, and extreme cold, the thermometer often falling as low as 40 or 50 degrees below zero in the more northern districts.

Site of Columbia River Reclamation Project

General view of the Columbia river just west of Bonneyville, Ore., where it will be necessary to take up the Union Pacific tracks shown and tunnel them through the rocks to higher grounds as part of the plan calling for the expenditure of $83,000,000 for the erection of a power dam and reclamation project. The plan, which has received the approval of the President, would furnish the country with the cheapest electricity manufactured and would set a precedent for prices on the west coast.

WILSON'S MILLS

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Littlehale and family were at Sunday River Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen of Showglen, who are caretakers at Errol dam while Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick are on their vacation, called on their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. West, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tidwell of Turner called on relatives in town Sunday.

The children have picked a number of strawberry blossoms, dandelions, blue violets, and one little white violet, and I can see a buttercup blossom from my window now.

Gerald Littlehale is working at the dam again as work on the road is completed.

Lewis Olson is much better than he was. He worked on the road a few days.

Lumber has arrived in town for the fire wardens to set up a public camping ground and conveniences for same, which, I understand, is to be on Black Island.

The school children are working on a program for Hallowe'en now. They have some pretty songs.

Two carloads of men have gone up Abbott Brook to work in the woods.

Mike Marshall of Bethel is preparing to log at Sturtevant Pond. The Brown Company has a separate crew on Abbott Brook besides Henry Keenan with Johnnie Keenan in charge.

Louie West of Norway has been calling on relatives in town.

Rats Show Cunning
in Stealing Eggs

Monroe, Ia.—A barnyard mystery was cleared up here with the explanation of Mrs. C. H. Sutton, an authority on the cunning of rats.

Eggs had been missing from nests, and one farmer, while digging around his henhouse, found several eggs still intact, in rat holes.

The question arose as to how the rats could carry the eggs into a hole. Mrs. Sutton explained the rat system of nest robbing.

Two rats do the work. One lies flat on its back with its feet in the dirt while the other rat rolls the egg up on the stomach of the reclining rat, which holds the egg in that position with its four legs.

The other rat then takes the tail of the rat holding the egg and drags it into the hole.

Leipzig Fair Success
Despite World Slump

Leipzig.—The Leipzig fair, long the barometer of business conditions, has given an excellent account of itself this year. In the face of the world-wide depression, the attendance and volume of business transacted compares very favorably with other years.

According to the official report the fair included 6,292 exhibitors, representing every phase of modern industrial life. The foreign participation was especially gratifying since 23 countries outside of Germany sent 602 exhibits. More than 115,000 business men attended. The volume of business transacted in all divisions of the fair proved highly satisfactory in view of the industrial unrest.

A great many of these foreign buyers have remained in Germany following up business contracts made during the fair, entailing visits to factories throughout Germany.

Wolf Pit Believed to Be Old Spanish Mine

Sylavene, Miss.—An old mine, overlooked for years by state geologists as a wolf pit, has been discovered three miles from here by M. P. Finnegan, prospector. He believes Spaniards conducted mining operations here before they were driven out by the French.

The tunnel was found after digging through 20 feet of mixed dirt, which showed it had been thrown there by early miners. The tunnel is 6 feet deep, but its width and length have not yet been determined. Finnegan is working to determine how far into the hills it extends.

POWER BOARD CHIEF

Who the Jayhawkers Were
The name "Jayhawker" originated in Kansas during the contest over slavery just before the Civil war. Bands of slavery men and free soil men ravaged farms, drove away horses and carried on a guerrilla war. The free soil men called the slavery men border ruffians, while the slavery men in turn called the free soil men Jayhawkers. The most probable derivation of the latter word is from Jayhawk, a fierce bird of prey, which it is said kills other creatures for the mere love of killing. The people of Kansas have been humorously nicknamed Jayhawkers and Kansas is sometimes called the Jayhawk state.

Many Make Mistakes on Age of Rare Furniture
It is not unusual to hear someone speak of seeing or having a Chippendale, Hepplewhite or Sheraton table or chair that can be traced back over 200 years; but if a few dates are remembered many mistakes may be avoided, writes Edith B. Crumb in the Detroit News.

The "Big Four" of the Georgian period, Chippendale, Adam (Robert and James), Hepplewhite (or Heppelewhite as it was sometimes spelled) and Sheraton could not have created furniture 200 years ago as their work was brought to perfection between 1750 and 1800. Chippendale was born in 1710; Robert Adam, 1728; the date of Hepplewhite's birth is not on record, but it was between that of Adam and Sheraton; Adam was not born until 1751. So it is no small wonder that the age of a "piece" is sometimes questioned.

Chippendale was a very colorful figure in England in his time. He had plenty of competition, but he was a good advertiser, his magnetic personality making it possible for him to surround himself with the best means of identifying furniture in his style. First there is the splat back, showing the influence of the Dutch design, the splats varying in their decorative effect; then the Chinese influence, showing more geometric motifs, and then the ladderback chair, a very simple but attractive one and one that is copied a great deal today.
